

Prospective Marriage Visa subclass 300

The Prospective Marriage Visa Subclass 300 Lets An Australian Citizen's Or Australian Permanent Resident's Soon-To-Be Partner To Enter In Australia To Marry Them. Even The Spouse Or Partner Of An Eligible Citizen Of New Zealand Can Lawfully Stay In The Country Through This Visa. The Partner Visa Australia Can Be A Permanent Or A Temporary One, Depending On The Need, Purpose Or Reason Of Stay In This Country.

It Is Important To Know That After This Fiancée Visa Is Issued, You Have To Enter Australia Before You Marry Your Fiancée And Should Marry Him/Her Before Your Visa Ends. Then If You Willing To Stay Permanently With Your Spouse In Australia You Must Apply For Partner Visa Subclass 820 And 821 To Be As Subclass 300 Is Only Valid For Nine Months.

Who Can Apply For Prospective Marriage Visa Subclass 300?

- The Prospective Marriage Visa Subclass 300 can be obtained by a person who:
 - Is at least 18 years old
 - Planning to marry their prospective spouse
- Knows and has already met the eventual partner

What Visa Subclass 300 Lets You Do In Australia?

With the Visa Subclass 300, an individual can:

- travel to Australia and stay in the country for up to 9 months
- work or be employed in Australia
- study in Australia at his own expense
- travel outside Australia as much as he wants

General Eligibility Criteria For Visa 300 Australia

This visa is obtainable as long as an individual meets the general requirements needed specifically for it.

- Each of the partner know and have met one another personally
- If you wish to marry you to be partner within nine months of the visa being issued
- To apply for this Fiancée visa your prospective partner must sponsor you
- You must meet the health requirement
- the character requirements must be met
- if you have debts to the Australian government, he must have arranged for a repay, or repaid any outstanding debt to the government

General Q&A About Visa 300 Australia

How Much Does Visa 300 Cost?

- Currently this visa costs AUD7000, however the price keeps on fluctuating with the changing visa rules.

Can I Apply For Visa 300 While I Am In Australia On Tourist Visa?

- Any individual looking to get this partner visa should be outside of Australia (when applying as well as when the visa grant is given)

Can I Extend My Visa?

- This is a temporary visa valid for nine months and is non-extendable, though after you marry your future partner you can apply for a permanent partner visa to stay with your spouse.

You can contact any Australian Immigration Consultant or migration agent and get your visa applied. They will solve all your queries, help you and guide throughout the procedure.